Exhibition Regulations

1. Definitions

'Exhibitor' refers to company, organization, or person who submitted application form and paid the exhibition fee to participate in the exhibition. 'Exhibition' refers to SEOUL DESIGN FESTIVAL 2021. 'Organizer' refers to Design House Inc..

2. Allocation of Stand Area

The organizer allocates the stand area and the stand location based on the categories. If necessary, the organizer can change the allocation before set-up period with prior notice. Such changes belong to the organizer's rights. The exhibitor cannot require reimbursement for the result of the changes.

3. Application and Terms of Payment

The application form should be submitted to SEOUL DESIGN FESTIVAL Office in Design House Inc. Upon approval of participation by Design House, invoice will be issued. Participation fee should be paid by 31st of August 2021.

4. Payment Details

The booth fee includes exhibition space rental, 24-hour outside security service, passage cleaning, and various promoting expenses.

5. Setting-up and Dismantling

Setting-up and dismantling should be completed within the period regulated by the organizer. Each exhibitor is responsible for the disposal of the waste he/she creates both during the setting-up and dismantling periods as well as during SEOUL DESIGN FESTIVAL itself. The exhibitor is responsible for any loss and damage caused by the delay of dismantling.

6. Information for the Organizer

The Exhibitor should provide the information of exhibition and construction details to the organizer, as well as the information for advertising and promoting, so that the organizer knows whether the booth condition consistent with the regulations.

7. Insurance, Security, and Safety

The exhibitor can insure all substrates and exhibits during setting-up and dismantling periods. The organizer would surveil objects in the exhibition to prevent loss or damage, but is not responsible for the reimbursement. Lightings and all the materials for exhibition should be fireproofed. For safety reasons, the organizer can limit the installation.

8. Exhibition Management

Activities of the exhibitor cannot leave his/her assigned area. The exhibitor should exhibit the objects and place the resident agent in the booth during the open hours.

9. Exhibit Sales

The purpose of the exhibition is to demonstrate the exhibitor's product or service, and to promote them. The exhibitor is allowed with the sales activities in the exhibition area, however, sale by subscription is preferred. In addition, taxes and any other details belong to the responsibility of the exhibitor.

10. Risk

The exhibitor is responsible for exhibit's loss and damage, or any kind of injury, and cannot require reimbursement to the organizer.

11. Cancellation and Penalty

If the exhibitor cancels his/her application, he/she should pay the penalty as follows within 15 days after cancellation. After the deadline, the application fee is deducted by the penalty. If the paid penalty exceeds the amount, it would be returned. If the payment is not enough, it should be additionally paid.

< Cancellation before 31st Aug. 2021: 50% of the application fee >

< Cancellation after 31st Aug. 2021: 80% of the application fee >

< Cancellation after 30th Sep. 2021: 100% of the application fee >

12. Cancellation by Organizer

If the exhibitor rejects to utilize part (or all) of assigned area, or if the exhibition fee is not paid within the deadline, the organizer can cancel the participation of the exhibitor.

13. Alternation of Exhibition

If inevitable, the organizer can change the date or venue of the exhibition. The exhibitor cannot require reimbursement for such changes.

14. Supplementary Regulations

If necessary, the organizer can override the supplements that are not specified in the participation rules, and the exhibitor should comply with them. Also, the exhibitor should comply with the regulations of Design House Inc..

15. Resolution of Conflict

Any conflict between the organizer and the exhibitor follows the judgment by the Korean Commercial Arbitration Board, and he/she cannot sue against the judgment.
